

H-AFRICA Electronic Discussion Group

I thought it would be useful to provide this information to our readership.

H-AFRICA is a moderated electronic discussion group and bulletin board for scholars (including graduate students), librarians, and teachers interested in the African past. A part of the H-Net family of LISTSERV discussion lines, H-AFRICA encourages informed discussions of teaching and research on African history and humanities at all levels of interest and complexity.

The primary purpose of H-AFRICA is to provide a forum for those interested in the serious study of African history to communicate openly. In this spirit, H-AFRICA welcomes research reports and inquiries, teaching materials, bibliographies, library and archive information, announcements of conferences, fellowships, funding opportunities, as well as reports on new electronic resources relevant to the African past.

H-AFRICA is currently edited by Professor Mel Page (pagem@etsuarts.east-tenn-st.edu) of East Tennessee State University, and Professor Harold Marcus of Michigan State University (ethiopia@hs1.hst.msu.edu). The editors consult with an editorial board of international scholars broadly representative of the state of the discipline.

Subscription to H-AFRICA is free and open to professional researchers and teachers in African history or allied fields and to everyone concerned with serious scholarship in the field.

To subscribe send an e-mail message to: LISTSERV@MSU.EDU with no subject and only this text: SUB H-AFRICA yourfirstname yourlastname, your institution. Capitalization does not matter, but spelling and commas do. The editors will then send you a short questionnaire to complete and return on line, confirming your subscription.

H-AFRICA is especially interested in finding African partners who will work with them to extend this resource throughout the continent. If you do not have access to e-mail, write: Harold Marcus, History Department, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan, 48824, USA. Or FAX 615-929-5373.
